S

omtimes in life, events that bit close to home move people in ways they don’t expect. For Linda Andrew, a misnomer in an insurance firm in Qu’Appelle, outside Regina. “And when my colleague’s daughter passed away, we were totally shocked. I just felt I really wanted Andrew, the woman’s mother, and several dozen others in their small Saskatchewan community are trying to the challenge and nur-

The Mayer of Montreal, Germain Tremblay, and his wife, Suzanne Tailleur, participate in last year’s Canadian Breast Cancer Foundation CIBC Run for the cure in the city.

Last year, together with a matching donation from the company, the first Light team raised over $300,000 and provided nearly 100

Dressing for success

means wearing a T-shirt

breast cancer survivors. T-shirts for this year’s Run, which takes place September 12 to 16, will be available at the Run sites and online at www.cbcf.org or by contacting the Canadian Breast Cancer Foundation.

To underline the point that every-

breast cancer survivors,” explains Tiina Tulikorpi, NYGÅRD’s

The Mayor of Montreal, Germain Tremblay, and his wife, Suzanne Tailleur, participate in last year’s Canadian Breast Cancer Foundation CIBC Run for the

cure in the city.

Last year, together with a matching donation from the company, the first Light team raised over $300,000 and provided nearly 100

Dressing for success

means wearing a T-shirt

breast cancer survivors. T-shirts for this year’s Run, which takes place September 12 to 16, will be available at the Run sites and online at www.cbcf.org
or by contacting the Canadian Breast Cancer Foundation.

To underline the point that every-

breast cancer survivors,” explains Tiina Tulikorpi, NYGÅRD’s

The Mayor of Montreal, Germain Tremblay, and his wife, Suzanne Tailleur, participate in last year’s Canadian Breast Cancer Foundation CIBC Run for the

cure in the city.

Last year, together with a matching donation from the company, the first Light team raised over $300,000 and provided nearly 100

Dressing for success

means wearing a T-shirt

breast cancer survivors. T-shirts for this year’s Run, which takes place September 12 to 16, will be available at the Run sites and online at www.cbcf.org
or by contacting the Canadian Breast Cancer Foundation.

To underline the point that every-

breast cancer survivors,” explains Tiina Tulikorpi, NYGÅRD’s

The Mayor of Montreal, Germain Tremblay, and his wife, Suzanne Tailleur, participate in last year’s Canadian Breast Cancer Foundation CIBC Run for the

cure in the city.

Last year, together with a matching donation from the company, the first Light team raised over $300,000 and provided nearly 100

Dressing for success

means wearing a T-shirt

breast cancer survivors. T-shirts for this year’s Run, which takes place September 12 to 16, will be available at the Run sites and online at www.cbcf.org or by contacting the Canadian Breast Cancer Foundation.